

OVER IN CAMDEN

Rev. F. H. Shermer, pastor of the Pearl Street Baptist Church, Bridgeton, preached last evening on "A Review of the Nineteenth Century."

George Nallen, charged with maintaining a disorderly house at 215 South Second street, was held in $1500 bail by Justice Stackhouse for a hearing to-day.

Rev. Dr. S. H. Haun, secretary of the Camden county Law and Order League, has addressed a letter to Mayor Hatch, of Camden, complimenting him on the work done by members of the police force in the recent raids on alleged policy-writers, disorderly houses and speak-easies.

David Williams, a journeyman shoemaker, living from Saturday to Monday with his wife at 334 Pine street, has not been heard from for five weeks, according to his wife. He was employed at a shoe factory in West Philadelphia, leaving home Monday morning and returning Saturday night.

A man about 40 years of age, who gave his name as Hugh Frier, formerly of the Seventeenth ward, Philadelphia, surrendered himself to Police Captain Stanley and Policeman Fitzsimmons yesterday, and stated he escaped from the Blockley Almshouse last Monday. He was sent to the City Hall.
