JOSEPH BOSSLE

Well-known musician who has been appointed head of the Third Regiment Band

One of the important happenings in National Guard circles in New Jersey recently is the retirement from the chief musician's position of the Third Regiment, N. G. P., of Joseph Jennings, who, for many years, waived the baton at the head of Jennings' Third Regiment Band. Colonel Mather, in looking about for a bandmaster, decided that the best in the land was, none too good for his regiment and he selected Joseph Bossle, long connected with the old band, a resident of Camden and one of the foremost men in Philadelphia's musical circles.

Bossle has for many years been the leader of Bossle's Orchestra, and his high position in the musical associations assures him the very best talent for his new band.

Bossle's Third Regiment Band made a fine impression at the Grand Army review at Atlantic City.
